RILEY MINKOFF '20

Political science major
Spanish minor

J.D./Master's in Peace and Justice Studies dual-degree program at University of San Diego School of Law and Joan B. Kroc School of Peace Studies

“After hearing about USD’s dual degree program, I spoke to my advisors and mentors on campus and they helped me realize that I could go into law and learn more about advocacy work, through this dual degree program. I am on a path that will prepare me to be a legal advocate and help so many people, especially asylum seekers and the LGBTQ+ community. I hope to become an immigration lawyer and learn to better advocate for underrepresented communities and seek justice no matter what position I am in.”

BRANDON EDEN '19

Biochemistry major
Economics minor

Second year M.D. student at Penn State College of Medicine

“Muhlenberg provided me with a strong, synthetic body of knowledge that is invaluable as a medical student. The intimate environment of small class sizes and the wonderful interactions I have had with professors helped foster critical thinking skills and the ability to interrogate new concepts and learn quickly. My excitement for scientific discovery and lifelong learning was fueled by working in Professor Sherri Young’s lab, and I was able to actively engage with the research process by reviewing literature, conducting experiments and seeing the project through to publication.”

OPPORTUNITY

CHRISTIAN NAVARRO '18

Accounting major

Assurance Associate at PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP

“Through networking with students at Muhlenberg, I was able to obtain my first internship with PwC, and this eventually cultivated into a second internship the following summer and a full-time position upon graduation. I was able to get my foot in the door after my resume was sent to the PwC campus recruiting team in New York City, who then forwarded it onto the respective team based in Chicago. I think my student to professional experience is reflective of the tight-knit community that is so special at Muhlenberg.”

SHANA JOSEPH '18

Computer Science and Studio Art majors

Carnegie Mellon University

“When I first came [to Carnegie Mellon], I was really scared and nervous. However, I quickly realized that Muhlenberg had given me the skills to thrive—and that the network I’d built there had my back. Art Professor Joe Elliott kept in touch while I navigated the graduate school admissions process, and now, I am helping a current Muhlenberg student who also hopes to work in entertainment technology. I had a great experience, mostly because of the people I met, and I’m still in contact with so many of them.”
